I am learning to develop my ability to not define life, to melt into it rather than dominate it and by so doing I learn to love and the more I love the happier I am every day!